Search - Moss Joint Concert Coming Treat

The coming concert by two great artists, booked for Monday, February 12, at the Arts and Crafts Hall, will be a great event. Frederick Preston Search's recitals in musical cities have been famous; his annual offerings in Carmel have always been worth while. Immediately before the war Mr. Search was first cellist of the Chicago American Symphony, dean of cello department at a Chicago College of Music, assistant editor of the Violinist, associate conductor at the Chicago Studebaker Theatre; during the war, Head Naval Bandmaster and Conductor of Naval Orchestra at Mare Island. His occasional concerts at Carmel have been only too few, but have always been marked by splendid virtuosity and have made profound impressions on his audience.

Concerning Frank Moss, Mr. Search's associate artist, who appeared with tremendous ovation in piano recital on January 10, last in San Francisco Redfern Mason writes in the Examiner: "Pianists may be divided into two classes—artisans and artists. Frank Moss is an artist, and an excellent one. He played the Bach fantasie and fugue, Schumann Etudes Symphoniques and a sonata by the lamanted Charles T. Griffes, by whose death America lost a composer of rare gifts. The Bach is a composition that calls for the mettle of a master. Moss played it lovingly. Bach for him is no old-timer composing in an antiquated vernacular, but one of the greatest of the eternal contemporaries. He thrilled us with the majestic exuberance of it; he caressed those wonderful melodies in which the old cantor seems to be interrogating the very soul of music and seeking the God who is its inspirer. The fugue was vital and provocative. It was splendidly played. In the Schumann the pianist built up his effects organically. He made the work alive in all its proportions. Of the Griffes work it is not easy to speak decisively. It is a composition designed on large lines and, on the first hearing, is sounded a trifle amorphous. But we may grow to it as the last generation grew to Brahms, who, when first he was heard, perplexed many excellent heads. Originality startles at first. The Griffes is the work of a serious musical thinker with something to say that is his own. Mr. Moss must play the sonata again, and then again.

Needless to say Mr. Search has insisted that Mr. Moss play the Griffes Sonata at this concert for the Carmel music lovers, and especially because it is a high example of one of our most gifted American composers and this concert is given on Lincoln's Birthday. Mason continues: "In lighter as in more sober vein Mr. Moss confirmed the impression which has gained credence concerning him that he is a musician of unusual powers."

Good Time at the Blethen Hard Times Ball at Arts & Crafts

A social event that will long be remembered as one of the most enjoyable ever held in Carmel was that given at Arts and Crafts Hall last Saturday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Blethen.

The invitations to the affair stated that it was to be a "hard times" party, but the hard times were apparent only in the costumes worn. No one had a hard time having a good time. A five-piece orchestra just wouldn't let your feet behave, and as the night wore on everyone felt better and better.

When the eats came it was apparent that the dancers had worked up a fairly healthy appetite and there was plenty, even for the repeaters.

Particularly interesting were the costumes, among them a creation made of three sugar sacks, a man attired in the garb of the tropics, one hard-up guy in overalls, another as a David Harum type of hoss trader, several old ladies and a familiar bifurcated garment, and a large number of costumes (or lack of costumes) which defy description.

The first day of Lent is Wednesday, February 14th. This is also St. Valentine's Day. Easter Sunday comes on April 1st.

Silhouetted Pines

Copyrighted

Hither, where wistful whispering pines
With silver boughs fret the skies,
As the swinging sun of summer climbs
Through their shimmering traceries,
Fleet shadows dance in arabesque trance
Of ivory, gold and gray—
While the burning sun stencils with aureate pencils
An intricate marquetry.

And I fain would heed wind's piping rede,
Telling the height of day;
Of that vale of delight, where he strays by night,
On the banks of the Milky Way.
Where the star streamer flares, and the deep dreamer
Who would find in his beating heart [fares
The infinite treasure of rhythmic measure—
The origin of Art.

Fire Fighters Get New Red Wagon

In all its glory of shiny red paint and gold lettering the Model No. 6 triple-combination Luverne fire truck arrived in Carmel on Monday afternoon. It is a handsome job and the manufacturers may well be proud of their handiwork.

From the advance information received from the Luverne Fire Apparatus Company the people of Carmel were prepared to see a satisfactory and well-made fire truck, but their anticipations have been exceeded in every way.

After a long and painstaking investigation of the merits of various makes of fire apparatus, the Board of Trustees decided that the one most suitable for the needs of Carmel, and most reasonable in price, was the Luverne Model No. 6.

However, as the Luverne Company sells for cash only, and the city treasury did not contain the wherewithal to make the entire payment on demand, the city fathers were in a quandary. Then the matter was passed over to the city attorney to work out a solution if possible, and that resourceful gentleman soon cut the Gordian knot.

The problem was solved by the public spirit of ten of our prominent Carmelites, who pledged their credit at the Bank of Monterey, purchased the fire apparatus, and sold it to the city under a contract and lease covering a term of four years. These patriotic citizens who have done this service for our town, without asking or receiving one cent from the city for their aid, deserve the appreciation and thanks of every one of us. The roll of honor is as follows:

Fenton P. Foster, Isabel A. Leidig, Thomas V. Cator, R. J. DeYoe, John B. Jordan, Joseph G. Hooper, C. L. Yates, Ernest Schweninger, John H. McKee and H. W. Turner.

Great credit is due to City Attorney Campbell who through his conduct of the negotiations saved the town about $1500 and to Chief Nichols, Bob Leidig and others, who gave their time and energy to give us a first class fire apparatus.

Grand Jury Is Doing Good Work

Not for several years has the Monterey County Grand Jury been in the public eye to the extent that it is at the present time. It is a real working functioning body—investigating, questioning, recommending, indicting.

The first bombshell was the indictment of two public officials, who will have to stand trial. Just now the public is interested in the controversy involving the handling of funds by County Treasurer James Taylor. One newspaper has it that:

> "County Treasurer Jim Taylor today gave the county auditor a receipt for $3,982.72, alleged to have been unlawfully withheld by him for some months.
> "It has been rumored for some days that the grand jury was investigating his accounts, particularly with reference to his dealings with the Salinas Union High School board and it is assumed that Taylor turned this money over to the county to square himself.
>
> "Just what action the grand jury will take against him is a matter of conjecture. All of the papers which the jury has referred to in this connection are on secret file and no intimation has leaked out as to the probable action of the grand jury. Taylor himself appeared before the grand jury last Wednesday, it is understood, and was subjected to a good deal of questioning."

And a dispatch to a Monterey paper is as follows:

> SALINAS, Jan. 27.—No little surprise was occasioned here today by the announcement that County Treasurer James Taylor had turned over to the county auditor a sum, said to be $3982.72, interest in the school bond funds of the Salinas Union High School district. This sum, it is understood, Treasurer Taylor told County Auditor Cornett, had been lying in his office, in a tin box, and had been overlooked when other bond interest funds were turned over to the auditor's office."

Not much remains to be done in the work of laying concrete on Ocean ave., though it will be several weeks before the thoroughfare will be open to traffic. Before the season's rains are at an end it would be well to have the park space cleared, plowed and made ready for planting, so that by summer Ocean avenue will be a scene of beauty.

Work on Carmel Coast Highway Is Checkmated

Not for us, for a long, long time, is the Carmel-San Simeon highway. All work, under way and contemplated, will be abandoned. And this notwithstanding surveys are completed and several contracts signed, sealed and delivered.

This state of affairs is brought about by Governor F. W. Richardson's economy highway commissioners, who have cancelled the $800,000 contract entered into last October.

The depleted condition of state highway funds was held out by Secretary W. F. Mixon, of the State Highway Commission, as his reason for cancelling the contract held by George C. Pollock, in this county, and running from Anderson canyon to the Sur river. Mixon's statement, concluded with a sentence to the effect that "the purposes served did not justify the expenditures."

The opening up of a vast territory for agricultural, timber and mineral exploitation, the value of the highway as a military necessity, the long desired complete coast road from San Francisco to San Diego, were evidently not considered important by Commissioner Toy and his associates.

Ida Maynard Curtis Exhibits in New York

Exploitation of Carmel scenery in its variant moods was notably exemplified in the recent showing of canvass by Ida Maynard Curtis at the Ainslie Galleries in New York. The play of sunlight in all her work is exhilarating and she interprets a quality of brilliance almost dazzling. This, no doubt, has been enhanced by study during the past six months among the artist coterie in Provincetown where her atelier was open for several years before coming west to build a home in Carmel. Although a Boston birth and education gave her the eastern atmosphere and preparation, years spent abroad and in the west rounded her vision to cosmopolitan viewpoint. So that all her latest work has that breadth which bespeaks the beauty of the great spaces, the color and contours of bold coasts of California, and specifically the Monterey peninsula.

A glance at the titles of the January exhibition shows preference for Point Lobos, Vistas at Point Lobos, Sunshine on Point Lobos and Ravine at Point Lobos, Sand Dunes in Carmel, The Carmel Mission, Early Morning on the Mountains and Autumn on the Dunes, all being familiar themes to admirers of her treatment. The first picture sold from this group was the favorite subject of many visitants to the point, the yellow sandstone cliffs of the north side on which still clings one of the past great sentinel cypress from the buried groves of Lemuria.

Miss Curtis has opened her atelier at the Sherwood Studios, where William Ritschel and many other disinguished colleagues have had headquarters. She will probably not return to Carmel before summer.

Carmel's First Touch of White

Carmel is beautiful at all times—no question about that—but when the trees and the roads, the roofs and the highways are covered with a blanket of snow, Carmel is super-beautiful.

Some people said it wasn't snow, but sleet, that greeted us Tuesday morning. Anyway, it was a beautiful white covering. It was a real novelty, not so much to older folks, but to the children. Snowball battles were numerous, and on Carmel Hill on the way to Monterey the high school pupils abandoned their autos to indulge in a gambol in the snow. They were an hour late for class.

The Santa Lucia mountains south of Carmel were beautiful and impressive with their white mantle, and several small groups of local people journeyed to the various peaks to view the sight from on high.

Joe Blethen Talks on Publicity at Monterey Busines Men's Lunch

The speaker and guest of honor at the Monterey business men's luncheon at the House of the Four Winds on Wednesday was Joseph Blethen of Carmel.

Mr. Blethen is an easy and forceful speaker, and on the subject of civic development gave evidence of an inexhaustible fund of information. His sixteen years as a trustee of the Seattle Chamber of Commerce, a period during which that city made its greatest development, and his position as business manager and president of the Seattle Daily Times for over a quarter of a century, afforded him vast opportunity for constructive development work and observation and publicity.

Addressing himself to the subject "Monterey—the Third City in California," Blethen said:

"You have a real definite place for a large city here—but you do not know your possibilities. You should make a thorough survey; know what you have, then you'll know better what you want. If you had a fifty-thousand dollar advertising fund on hand right now it would do you no good unless you knew exactly what you had to sell. Find out."

Other speakers were A. G. Metz, W. L. Overstreet, J. P. Prior and Gouverneur Morris, all of whom spoke in a general way of the coast road problem.

Big Concert "Card" Put Over by Pacific Grove Musical Society

That the people of Monterey Peninsula are strong for things musical was testified to last Wednesday evening when over five hundred residents of Carmel, Monterey and Pacific Grove attended the second concert of the Pacific Grove Musical Society in the auditorium of the grammar school in Pacific Grove.

The outstanding number of a long program was Thomas Vincent Cator's cantata, "Sowing the Sequoia," from his beautiful open air music drama, "The Soul of Sequoia." The splendid soprano of Mrs. Robert A Leitch, the co-operating chorus of forty-five voices and the twenty-five piece orchestra directed by L. E. M. Cosmey made a most impressive number.

Other popular numbers were Suppe's orchestra, "Light Cavalry," Offenbach's Barcarolle, "Tales of Hoffman," and "Volga Boatman's Song."

Tom Cator, as conductor of both orchestra and chorus, more than sustained his splendid reputation.

Enter Senator Hughes

In the special election last Tuesday to select a successor to the late Senator E. S. Rigdon, Major Ralph L. Hughes came out the victor by an overwhelming majority. There was a light vote. In Carmel 116 voters went to the polls; of the 116 ballots all but "two misguided individuals," as the Peninsula Herald puts it, voted for "Buddy" Hughes. The senator-elect is already on the job.

The total vote, minus a few small precincts, follows:

Hughes	3375
Williams	1242
Hughes' majority	2133

Also an anonymous donation of $10 has been received.

Mrs. Fleming Dies at San Jose

Mrs. Maude Arndt's host of friends will grieve with her in the loss of her sister, Mrs. Charles F. Fleming of San Jose. Mrs. Arndt was visiting her sister when an attack of acute kidney trouble terminated Mrs. Fleming's very useful and beautiful life. In losing her sister Mrs. Arndt lost her most valued friend and the world lost one of its best sojourners. Those who knew her intimately realized that the keynote of Mrs. Fleming's life was consideration of others. Mrs. Fleming was the wife of Charles F. Fleming, the president of the California Fruit Growers' Association of San Jose.

Cumming Estate in Court

A petition has been filed in the Superior Court at the county seat by Louis S. Slevin and Rachel M. Ashburner to probate the will of Sarah F. Cumming, who died at her home here on January 19th. The will, under date of November 23, 1921, disposes of personal and real property valued at about $26,000.

There are a number of legatees in England. Those in California are Mildred Anderson and Elsie D. and D. F. Walkington of Los Gatos; Ella M. Richter, Grace P. Campbell and Mary Porter, of San Francisco; John A. and J. Hunter Harrison of Berkeley.

Charles Clark is the attorney for the petitioners.

Fox Film to Exploit Peninsula

Monterey Peninsula will again display its scenic charms throughout the country on the silver screen—this time through the Fox film corporation. Director James B. Chapin has an advance party here doing location and making necessary arrangements for the company which is to follow in a few days. The party consists H. Parry, M. D. Farley, Guy Roe, M. Stern, and L. C. Jeuckes, of Los Angeles.

Carpenters are already at work constructing sets at Point Lobos and the necessary accommodations arranged for the company at Monterey hotels.

The title of the picture and its stellar player are as yet celluloid secrets.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY

On this date in 1911, Horace Greeley was born in Amherst, N. H. He became famous as editor of the New York Tribune.

A WISE CONSOLIDATION

Newspaper publication on the Monterey Peninsula has gone back to normal, legitimate proportions.

On Thursday, February 1, the consolidation of the two Monterey evening papers, the Peninsula Herald and the Monterey Cypress, became effective, the Herald Publishing Company having purchased from William Sandholt, Jr., the Cypress newspaper property.

As matters now stand there are published three newspapers on the peninsula—the Herald in Monterey, the Review [illegible] Grove and the Pine Cone in Carmel—all that these communities can be expected reasonably to require for some time to come.

THE KLAN IN PERSPECTIVE—AND NOW

Author Thomas Dixon is shocked. His "The Clansman," the novel which glorified the original Ku Klux Klan of Reconstruction days, and from which the famous film, "The Birth of a Nation," was taken, has made it plain in his recent statement in New York City that he has no sympathy with the ideals or actions of the Ku Klux Klan of today. He declared that the original klan was "founded as a weapon against a corrupt and intolerable tyranny by the bravest and noblest men of the South, but the proscription of the negro by the modern klan is inhuman. The klan assault upon the foreigner is the acme of stupidity and inhumanity. We all are foreigners except the few Indians we have not killed."

It is likely that Dixon would have been just as much shocked by the original klan had he seen it in operation. It acquired romance in his eyes, doubtless, by being old and extinct, but when he actually picks up his paper and reads of torture of human beings by hooded hands he is shocked. However, his statement might accomplish something.

Intimate Sketches of the Victorian Era

Our library has Lytton Strachay's "Eminent Victorians." It is hard to "get ahold of" there because it is in such great demand. But chance sometimes favors a wistful request for it in a happy moment between its return and hurried journey forth again beneath an eager arm.

The essays are so fascinating that once begun one doesn't put them down. The Cardinal Manning essay particularly exhibits the full flowering of Mr. Strachay's excellent talent for portraiture. Like most brilliant and penetrating people, however, Mr. Strachay sees but one side of the medal and hence these essays seem as untrustworthy as those of The Gentleman With the Duster and as those now but dimly popular but still fascinating interpretations of men which Macaulay launched to thrill the very Victorians of whom Mr. Strachay has made such an exhaustive study.

But one isn't particularly concerned with the factual trustworthiness of a literary essay, which one reads rather to chat with or discover the author of than to cram more of one's cranium pigeon holes with information from. And it is as a gentlemanly curious person that one is amply rewarded by the "Eminent Victorians." With the fire just right, the light just right, just enough cushions, no more callers for the evening, one luxuriates in hours of happy, mirthful, curious abandon guided by a graceful and well-informed English gentleman behind the scenes of the Victorian era. One discovers the Victorians, whom this generation ridicules, to have been quite as concerned with the problem of universal adjustment as are we, to have been quite as well equipped as we (probably better with Cardinal Newman), and possibly to have progressed as far as we may hope to. One feels strongly and with fresh emphasis that we may not go far when one reads Joseph Conrad's "Nostromo," for instance.
